

Forest Industry Engineering Association

Membership Information

FIEA Membership

Forest Industry Engineering Association (FIEA) members are provided an extensive range of benefits. Working closely with forestry and wood products companies throughout Australasia, the membership benefits have been structured to provide a package of services not being covered by other industry groupings.

Membership rates are low by industry standards. Membership is voluntary. It's also not being set by any collected levy. FIEA members join only if they see real value in the array of discounts being offered through the technology programmes and resources that are being supplied.

FIEA is a Technology Focused Industry Network

Technology Updates & Networking

FIEA provides New Zealand and Australian forestry and wood products companies access to world-leading technologists, technology providers, researchers, innovators and early adopters. Every year, FIEA manages an extensive programme of technology events designed to increase the productivity, profitability and competitiveness of local companies.

FIEA's technology events also provide a unique opportunity for like-minded businesses to meet, explore and establish longer-term strategic partnerships and alliances.

Technology & Business News

FIEA is the largest provider of weekly and monthly forestry and wood products news in Australasia. Breaking news, technology updates and information on employment within the sector and equipment is being provided every week through Friday Offcuts (www.fridayoffcuts.com) and WoodWeek (www.woodweek.com).

In addition, free copies of FOUR leading industry magazines every month are sent directly to all FIEA members to ensure they stay abreast of the key issues that will impact on their business.
